

European Society of International Law
11th Annual Conference
The Judicialization of International Law – A Mixed Blessing?
Oslo, Wednesday 9 September 2015

Interest Group: Feminism and International Law: ‘Has feminist theory had any substantive effect on the output of International Courts and/or Tribunals?’.

Panel 1: 1:00-3:00pm

A Man’s World? Framing Gender Within the International Criminal Court
Alice Welland, Utrecht University

Does feminist theory get a raw deal before the International Criminal Court?
Anna V Gall and Annelen Micus

Akayesu’s Rape Definition: an illustration of feminist influence?
Christine M.G. Tremblay, Leiden University

Crossing lines but not bridges: International law, gender and the future of the International Criminal Court
Olga Juraz Open University

3:00-3:30 Break

Panel 2: 3:30-5:00pm

Gender Stereotyping and the Strasbourg Court’s (Non) Engagements with Feminist Legal Thought
Lourdes Peroni and Alexandra Timmer, Ghent University

The ICJ Croatia v. Serbia Genocide Judgement: A Feminist Assessment
Enzamaría Trammatana, University of Palermo Italy

Exploring ICJ’s (Dis)engagement with Feminism: Separate and Dissenting Opinions as an Indicator. Ekaterina Yahyaoui Krivenko, NUI Galway University