

ESIL Interest Group on Feminism in International Law and Women in International Law Network Joint Networking Event

13th September 2018

9am – 12:30

Room F1, Renold Building

University of Manchester

The ESIL Interest Group on Feminism and International Law and the Women in International Law Network are proud to be hosting a joint networking event prior to this year's Annual Conference of the European Society of International Law. This interactive workshop will provide a forum to meet fellow scholars and discuss core issues facing feminists within international law, presenting an opportunity for women from different backgrounds and levels in the field to exchange experiences with each other. Table discussions will be centred on questions such as obstacles women face entering the international law field or advancing in their career and how we can inspire new areas of movement in feminist legal futures.

Discussions will be joined by several established academics including Christine Chinkin, Hilary Charlesworth, Louise Arimatsu, Yassin Brunger, Troy Lavers and Loveday Hodson. Due to its likely popularity, a limited number of places will be allocated on a first come first served basis. Please register to attend here

Please note, this event is free and open to all. Participants do not need to be attending the main ESIL conference to attend and therefore do not need to have paid the conference fee. The only requirement to attend is registration.
