I. PURPOSE OF THE WORKSHOP

As part of the XXX Conference of the Spanish Association of Professors of International Law and International Relations, a Doctoral Workshop for European, African, and Latin American young Researchers will be held on the afternoon before the Conference's opening on Wednesday 20 September at the University of Las Palmas de Gran Canaria. The joint participation of doctoral students from the three regions will allow us to enhance future research in the discipline in this global era.

The workshop is aimed at a maximum of 25 individuals enrolled in a doctoral program and scheduled to defend their thesis in 2024 or 2025, in any of the knowledge areas specific to the Association. Young doctoral researchers from Spanish, African, and Latin American Universities will be selected. Preference will be given to proposals that analyze topics related to the challenges of the new globalization.

The overall objective of the workshop is not to judge the methodology or content of ongoing work, but rather to identify weak points and suggest new ideas that may lead to an improved final outcome for the thesis. At the same time, participants will have the opportunity to share their research with their peers, make a first contact with academic scientific formats, and receive feedback from internationalists whose research careers are established. This workshop will also provide the opportunity to meet other researchers dedicated to the same field, strengthening scientific ties and sharing ideas and experiences.

Depending on the number of proposals accepted, the organization reserves the right to hold the workshop in three or four parallel sessions.

II. SUBMISSION AND ACCEPTANCE OF PROPOSALS

Young doctoral researchers who wish to participate in the workshop should submit their proposal from April 15th to May 15th 2023. Prior registration for the Conference is required in order to submit a proposal. The submission of the proposal should be done through the private access to the webpage.

In their proposal, applicants will indicate their name, University, year of doctoral programme, and topic of presentation, in a maximum of 8 pages. The proposal may be directed towards the presentation of empirical results, complete or partial research, or the discussion of problems or difficulties. The workshop is intended to delve into the specific methodologies being used by the doctoral researchers, the inquiry into specific lines of argument that they wish to develop, or other scientific issues on which they wish to obtain feedback or opinions from senior researchers and other participants.

Proposals will be analyzed and, if applicable, accepted by the Organizing Academic Committee according to the following criteria:

1. Scientific quality of the proposal.
2. Scientific originality and innovation of the proposal.
3. Originality and innovation of the presentation format.

Each participant will have 20 minutes, of which no more than 10 can be dedicated to the presentation of the specific topic, leaving time for discussion. Participants will decide which format they wish to use to present their contributions.

Upon receipt of the proposals, the Organizing Academic Committee will communicate the selection of proposals and the specific characteristics of the workshop to the proposers no later than June 19th 2023. Participation of the proposer in the workshop is subject to their effective registration in the XXX Conference.

The list of senior researchers who will participate in the workshop will be published subsequently to the selection.
